This program has an exciting and informative agenda that examines ideas, theories and assumptions with regard to diversity, while providing pertinent information that will help to enlighten and empower all students. The program's agenda includes various presentations which will explore relationships between people of different backgrounds. The program presenters are a mix of NJCU faculty, staff and students. As a special highlight, there will be a viewing of two compelling films, American History X and Crash.

We encourage the attendance of the university community; students, faculty, staff and guests are all welcome, as anyone can benefit from the presentations and information that will be provided on November 13th and 14th.

All attendees will receive relevant literature and complimentary gifts at the resource table and light refreshments will be served at each presentation.
